

Save money by having imaging and lab services at independent or freestanding facilities

Did you know the costs of medical tests and procedures often vary widely by provider with no significant difference in quality? Harvard Pilgrim-participating, independent lab and imaging centers offer the same services as hospitals or hospital-affiliated centers and typically cost less. Knowing your options can help reduce your out-of-pocket medical costs.

Remember, having tests and labs in your doctors' office may cost more if they're processed and read at more costly hospitals or facilities. Talk to your doctor, or one of his/her office staff, about where tests are sent. You have the right to ask your doctor if it's possible to send your next lab work or radiology test to one of these lower-cost providers.

Imaging Centers

When you need X-rays or high-end radiology tests like MRIs, you can reduce your health care costs by going to one of these independent or freestanding imaging centers.

Lab Locations

Talk to your doctor about having certain non-emergency, outpatient tests sent to one of these facilities. They offer the same services for outpatient lab work services that your doctors' offices and hospitals do, and typically cost less. Some providers also offer convenient patient draw-site locations, as listed below.

Some plans cover services at independent, outpatient labs at reduced out-of-pocket cost sharing or in full. Refer to your Schedule of Benefits for your specific coverage.
